Mrs. Roy was born at Lancaster, Dallas County, Jan. 13, 1857, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. K. Grove. Mr. Grove moved to Arlington with his daughter when she was young. Mrs. Roy lived here most all of her long life. She was always closely identified with church and civic work and the social life of Arlington from its earliest days until she left here in 1922 to move to Houston with her daughter, Mrs. Brown and Mr. Brown.

Even after she was no longer able to take active part in affairs, Mrs. Roy was intensely interested in all activities of Arlington. She was a charter member of the Ladies Aid and Missionary Society of the Arlington Presbyterian Church, a member of the Eastern Star, helped organize the first Arlington Civic League, was a charter member both of the Shakespeare Club and the Arlington Cemetery Association.

Mrs. Roy loved life and the people who made it and always drew young people about her. She loved them for she, too, was young in her heart.

It is a grand tribute to a finished life, for friends and family to feel that they are better people for having been associated with the one who is gone. Many Arlington people loved Mrs. Roy and will lovingly keep her in their memories.

"To live in hearts we leave behind is life eternal."

"Life is ever Lord of Death, and Love can never lose its own."

Friday February 10 WISE, UNWISE AND OTHERWISE
By S. Luther Perry

We welcome and appreciate any praise or criticism from our readers and want to pass the letter below along to you because it is a fact that The Journal is widely circulated and read:
Arlington, Texas
Feb. 2, 1939

Editor Arlington Journal
Arlington, Texas.

Dear Sir:

As it may interest you, I desire to inform you that when you recently printed an article in The Journal about some unknown party milking my cow, etc., it attracted an unusual amount of public attention.

I did not count them, but I believe I am safe in estimating that at least a hundred people either spoke to me on the street, or called me over the phone, or wrote me a letter mentioning the matter and making a bit of comment on it. Some kidded me and some sympathized. I needed both.

I even received one letter from quite a distance and every one said they had read the article in The Journal. This demonstrated to me that your paper is certainly widely read, much more so that I had ever before realized. As I know such information never makes an Editor mad, I am, therefore, telling you about it.

Your friend,
Major Lindsley M. Brown.

Passing of Mrs. Julia Carlisle Recalls Life Work of Carlisle Academy Founder

With the passing of Mrs. Julia Carlisle, age 77, a week ago last Tuesday at 12:30 p.m., many Arlington people will recall the life and activities here of her late husband, J. M. Carlisle, who organized and operated the Carlisle Military Academy, now N.T.A.C., from 1901 to 1913, and who was widely known as an outstanding educator. His name was listed in "Who's Who in America" during 1912-1913.

Born at Beach Grove, Coffee County, Tennessee, May 11, 1851, he was educated at B(unreadable.....) from Cumberland University in Tennessee, from Emory College in Georgia he received an honorary M.A. degree, and from the University of Nashville, his LLD degree.

THE ARLINGTON JOURNAL, Arlington, Texas. 1939

At the time the Carlisle Military Academy was in existence, the buildings consisted of the old Administration Building, later Fish Hall and now torn down and replaced by the modern Davis Hall, three barracks for cadets, the South Barracks being a residence for the superintendent and the mess hall and quarters for thirty cadets, the East barracks was a brick one-story building located just east of what is now College Avenue, and the West Barracks which housed thirty cadets and was located on the east side of Yates Street. All these buildings have since been removed and replaced by newer buildings.

During his life, Mr. Carlisle was Superintendent of the Whitesboro Public Schools, Superintendent of the Corsicana Public Schools, Superintendent of the Fort Worth Public Schools, and three times Superintendent of Public Instruction for the state of Texas.

When Carlisle died on July 21, 1922, many tributes were paid him. Officials at Austin at that time upon learning of his death, ordered the flag on the Stat Capitol to be placed a half-mast. State Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs, when asked later by the National Education Association to name three men that, in his opinion, had done most for the educational system of Texas, replied by giving the names of Mirabeau B. Lamar, Oscar Cooper, and James M. Carlisle. Many others named Carlisle as the outstanding leader and thinker of the day.

Dr. Carlisle advocated the uniform textbook law, and the legislature passed a bill to that effect during his administration as State Superintendent. He recommended that the state furnish the books for the children, and he lived to see this law enacted. A state course of study was issued for the first time during his administration and stricter certificate laws were secured. He also advocated state supported schools for all children, giving the rural children the same advantages as those enjoyed by the city youngsters. One acquaintance of Professor Carlisle said about Carlisle's educational theories, "Professor Carlisle was twenty years ahead of his time in his educational ideas and plans; he was a great leader and a deep thinker."

While living in Arlington, Carlisle lived at the Academy and attended the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Carlisle's first husband was George Franklin Sturgis of Hillsboro, and following his death she married James Carlisle. Sturgis owned the first bank in the city of Hillsboro which was later nationalized as the Sturgis National Bank. Mrs. Carlisle's body was carried overland to the old cemetery in the Sturgis family lot at Hillsboro after the services held at the Presbyterian Church in Arlington.

Survivors of Mrs. Carlisle are her son, George Franklin Sturgis, Laredo; two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Shepherd and Mrs. J. D. Delaney, both of Kerrville; a step-son, Justin Carlisle, Sherman; eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Rev. J. H. Patterson and S. M. Bennett officiated at the services at the Presbyterian Church.

Only a week after the death of his master, the late Lt. Wilbur D. Camp, "Moe," beautiful chow pup so devoted to the popular air corps officer, was dead of what officer friends of Camp stationed at Barksdale Field, Louisiana, claimed was a broken heart in grieving for his master.

For several nights following the tragic death of Lt. Camp, when after engaging a storm while sailing with two fellow officers, the former Arlington boy died from exhaustion, the faithful dog slept under Camp's empty bed.

He showed no signs of weakness, but seemed constantly on the alert, until Lt. Camp's personal effects were removed from the room, claimed Lt. H. ? Young, room-mate of Camp before the officer's death. Friday March 3 Citizen For Many Years Dies Last Sunday at Home

ILLNESS FATAL

DAVID CARROLL SIBLEY

An Arlington citizen for nearly forty years, David Carroll Sibley passed away at 3:35 a.m. Sunday morning after a long period of declining health.

Funeral services were held Monday at which a prayer was given by Bro. Walker, and the scripture reading was given by Rev. Patterson.

Bro. Hall gave a sketch of Bro. Sibley's life as follows:

David Carroll Sibley was born in Tupelo, Miss. Aug. 26, 1867. When he was about four years of age, his parents moved to Batesville, Ark. There he spent his boyhood and young manhood days.

On Dec. 7, 1887, Bro. Sibley was united in marriage to Miss Susanna Kennedy. He was a young teacher at that time and feeling the need of further education, he entered Quitman College, where he was graduated in 1890. After teaching there two years he was made president of the college.

THE ARLINGTON JOURNAL, Arlington, Texas. 1939

About this time, he felt the lure of Texas and also the call to preach. In answer to the first of these calls, he went on a hunting trip into Indian Territory and continuing further into the great southwest, he found himself at Johnson Station. He was so attracted by the surroundings that he sent for his wife and children and began his long citizenship in this immediate section. Still feeling the urge to preach he was granted license at Kennedale in the Fort Worth District in 1895. Later he was admitted on trial into the old Northwest Texas Conference at Georgetown. After a short time he decided to continue the ministry as a local preacher. This relation he held until (unreadable) responding to calls for service as supply, preaching in out of the way places and to neglected groups, visiting the sick, burying the dead, and in other ways making himself and family by engaging in active business life, mostly as a citizen of Arlington.

For almost forty years, he has been an active member of the Arlington Masonic Lodge, serving as secretary for the same thirty-eight years.

He is survived by his devoted wife and the following children: Miss Gertrude Sibley and Roger Sibley of Arlington, Mrs. H. F. Lane and Mrs. R. C. Thomas of Fort Worth; Mrs. Charles Pinson of Forney; and Mrs. Marvin Coffee and William Sibley of Dallas, son.

Bro. Sibley has been in declining health for a number of years and recently has been confined to his room. Here, surrounded by his friends and family and assuring them of his unflinching trust in His Savior and his readiness to go, he swung out on life's greatest adventure about 3:35 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 26 in quest of a "city whose Builder and Maker is God."

Rev. S. M. Bennett, who had known Bro. Sibley for 25 years, told of meeting Mr. Sibley on the street several months ago at which time the two talked about a mutual promise each had made that the survivor of the two would speak at the other's funeral services. "I shook hands with him and Sibley reminded me of that promise," Rev. Bennett said, "I have never seen a more resolute spirit in any man. He worked early and late, but was always ready to go to the call of a friend as a servant of God and man."

Bro. Sibley loved home, wife and children, believed firmly in education and good citizenship, and he had faith to carry on in the face of handicaps and unsurmountable obstacles.

They all returned unhurt. I was young, but I remember the tears and grief of my mother and the other women that day."

"When I was married in 1870, my husband and I settled on 40 acres where Arlington now is, and my husband put down a well and built the first house in Arlington. I live a long way from there, but Tarrant County, Texas will always be a dear place to me."

Mrs. Tyler Short

Our hearts were saddened last Friday when news was received of the passing of our dear brother, H. Tarpley of Edinburg, Texas. He had been detained here for a week due to a heart attack and had been at home only five days when another attack caused his sudden death.

Mr. Tarpley was at one time a resident of this community and principal of the Johnson Station school. He was married to the former Miss Rennie Short, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Short.

Everyone who knew Mr. Tarpley loved him and always had a good word to say for him. He lived a life of service to others. He loved his Lord and expressed to us the fact that he was ready to go. We surely know that the Master could say to him, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

FORMER HEAD OF SCHOOLS HERE DIES

Mr. H. Tarpley, superintendent of Arlington Schools from 1906-1913, died last Friday morning at his home at Edinburg, Texas, where the funeral services were held Saturday afternoon. He was buried at Weslaco, Texas.

THE ARLINGTON JOURNAL, Arlington, Texas. 1939

In 1906 Harvard Tarpley was appointed as Superintendent of the Arlington Public Schools, which position he held for some seven years, at which time he resigned to go into the real estate business. He later taught a few years in the North Side School under Mr. Kooken. He was also Probation Officer in Fort Worth for four years. He left here, with his family, in 1920, going first to Weslaco, Texas, where he taught school for a few years, and re-entered the real estate business. Later he moved to Edinburg, where his family is now living.

One friend of Mr. Tarpley's said, "It is because of such personalities as was his that civilization continues to advance. He lived right, according to his highest sense. He was always working for the good of the schools, the church, and the community in general. While in Arlington, he was active in church work, and at the time of his death was a teacher of one of the largest Sunday School Classes in his town—a young married couple's class in the Methodist Church. Besides the influence for good that will continue to live in the lives of those he has touched, he leaves four sons and two daughters who will make their contribution toward the good of the community. Thus we know that Good never dies."

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rennie Short Tarpley, and Ruth and Dick, who live at Edinburg; Bob and Bill who live in Dallas, Paul who lives in Victoria, and Ruth, who is the wife of Dr. Loyd Southwick and lives in Edinburg, two brothers: S. E. and Dr. Robert, both of Watertown, Ky., and one sister, Miss Etta Tarpley of Fort Worth.

Mr. Tarpley came to Arlington two weeks ago on business and to make a short visit with his sons in Dallas, and other relatives in this section. He was in on Saturday and Sunday night he had "a hurting in the chest," as he put it. Consulting a physician Monday morning it developed that he had a bad heart. He changed his plan for going back home that day, and instead went out to Tyler Short's for a few days of rest. By Saturday, the 14th, he was feeling fit, and his son from Dallas drove him home. He seemed to have made the trip in good shape, but he was still not able to go to town. On Friday morning he had the attack, and before a doctor could reach the house he had passed away.

Mrs. Boothe Tells Vivid Story Of First Plane Trip At Seventy-Five Years Of Age

How does it seem to take your first trip on a plane at the age of seventy-five?

Probably some persons would find the experience slightly uncomfortable after living all their lives on the ground, but not so with Mrs. John Boothe, 75 year old Arlington resident, who just flew from Fort Worth to Columbus, Ohio, making her first airplane trip. According to a letter she wrote to Mrs. Wessler here and after arriving in Columbus, Mrs. Boothe thoroughly enjoyed the entire trip.

In part, Mrs. Boothe said, "Well, I am just so thrilled over the act of flying I feel I must tell you about it if I can command language adequate to the effort. Really it was a thrilling and delightful experience and I enjoyed every minute of it. You will never know what a beautiful world you live in until you have flown eleven hundred miles over it. To look down you see a surface which looks like it has all been landscaped by an artist who is a genius at the art, every line and pattern perfect. Then to find yourself seven thousand feet in the air just sailing along like a bird sometimes over the clouds, sometimes under them and often through them. Sometimes as I looked out we would be approaching a huge mountain of cloud that looked so big it gave me the feeling that I should brace myself for the jar when I struck it—then to just sail on through it, to come out of it to see the most beautiful picture you can imagine. Clouds, clouds, lovely banks of clouds making all kinds of pictures, the sun touching them in their motion, giving them lovely pastel coloring, everchanging the color. It is such a fairy like and lovely picture it has to be seen to be appreciated and it gives you a feeling inside that you never had before, an appreciation and reverence for the greatness and grandeur of the power that created it all.

The Pilots promised me a pleasant flight and the stewardesses looked after my every need all of which added to the pleasure of the first air trip. Now you see what to expect and get by being 75 years old. Regards to everyone in my little home town and love to you.

Your friend,

Estelle M. Boothe

F. L. SNAVELY WILL HELP SOLVE AERIAL TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

(The following story was taken from a Kansas City paper and will be of interest to many of Arlington):

Services of F. L. Snavely, former Wichita pilot and now professor of aeronautics at the North Texas Agricultural college, Arlington, Tex., have been secured for a 90-day period by the city park board to work out technical problems confronting the board at the municipal airport.

City Manager Alfred MacDonald said yesterday Snavely would be here during the summer months while on leave of absence from the school. The board decided upon employing him at a meeting held during the afternoon.

With aeronautical activity increasing rapidly in Wichita, there are numerous traffic problems coming up, and while they are not acute at this time, MacDonald said the board was following its policy of planning in advance of the actual need in order to keep abreast of the latest developments.

Traffic control will be the major concern at present. At this time there are many persons using the airport facilities, principally student pilots, and it has been found that there is a need for controlling the planes in landing and taking off, particularly since there are numerous big airliners which stop here regularly.

"The plane traffic is becoming so heavy that unless some means of controlling it is devised there are liable to be some bad accidents," MacDonald said.

THE ARLINGTON JOURNAL, Arlington, Texas. 1939

The control problem will be met with some sort of light and radio system which is to be worked out by Snavely.

"Snavely is thoroughly versed on the problems we are faced with here," said MacDonald, "because of his many years in Wichita."

Snavely served as instructor in the Braley school of flying and was affiliated with the old Central Airlines company prior to 1929.

INTERESTING LETTER

The following letter has been received from Marshall Camp, who has been station(ed) in the Panama Zone with the U. S. Air Corps, by his mother:

"I took off here Saturday morning at 5 A.M., and flew up to David. Gassed up there and flew to San Jose, Costa Rico. On the way we flew over the volcan, a volcano which has been extinct for quite a spell. Saturday, however, it was going 90 miles an hour for us! Smoke and flame were going 300 feet up in the air.

"We landed at Santa Anna, and took a taxi to San Jose. Saw some real ox carts, and the people all carry a huge machete on their hip, and they are all painted up. Here is the good part! Just as we started out of the market we were run down and trampled by natives running to the street, crying "Treblar!" When we got outside we found that it was an earthquake! Telephone poles were rocking back and forth, windows were falling out and the whole town gone mad! It was over in about ten minutes, but they were talking about it all day. They told us to always run outside the building, as it might fall on us.

"That night, about 12:30, it came back, and everyone in the hotel came running out in pajamas, etc. Really, to me it was very exciting. Only a few ramshackle buildings fell down, and not many were hurt. I wouldn't have missed it for the world, but I don't ever want to witness or be in one again. People go mad! They are afraid the ground will open up and swallow them."

Tribute to W. J. Pulley

By Mrs. Bowen

Arlington loses a valuable citizen and a true friend in the passing of W. J. Pulley on last Tuesday week the 29th of Aug. at 9 o'clock a.m. from a severe cerebral hemorrhage resulting from over exertion and the excessive heat.

After mailing letters at the Fort Worth post office he worked on a defective new tire just purchased in Dallas earlier in the day and not feeling well he got in his car and drove a short way to his sons (Ralph's) place of business, who noticing his father's condition hurried him to St. Joseph hospital where everything was done for him but to no avail.

He spent a restless but obviously painless night and peacefully passed away at 9 o'clock, surrounded by his immediate family excepting his second son, Carl, who was in Cal., but arrived by plane that night.

Mr. Pulley's body lay in state at his home where many friends gathered to take a last look at his perfectly natural face and place lovely flowers around his bier. His funeral was held at the Methodist church where he worshiped for years and the funeral ovations were delivered by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Hall and Rev. C. B. Fielder of Greenville.

Mr. Pulley will be missed greatly for he was a man who truly lived beside the road, aiding and cheering all who passed his way. He was a tireless worker not only in his chosen commercial line but his home yard and garden claimed a share of his attention and time. Then he was never too busy or too tired to do favors and help out friends and neighbors. At heart he was a true sportsman loving fishing and hunting and baseball and football games.

His family life was above reproach, faultless as attested to by every one fortunate enough to have been included into the home circle and his place can never be filled as a devoted husband, father, brother and uncle.

Truly W. J. Pulley will be missed not only in his home and his town but in towns all over the state in which he did business. Always kind, cheerful and helpful he went along life's way with a song upon his lips and a lantern in his hand. May he rest in peace.

Friday October 20 ARLINGTON POLICEMEN TO WEAR BLUE UNIFORM

Arlington policeman will soon be (unreadable) just like those in most cities throughout the country, according to Police Commissioner Carl Beasley, who brought the matter before the city council and secured its approval.

This is not done for a show or to dress up City Police, but is done solely for the personal protection of the police who might be shot down by some outlaw as they now go about their duties without uniforms. That outlaw could later claim he did not know it was an officer and would probably get by without punishment.

The present plan now being considered is for the city to pay 50 per cent of the cost of such uniforms. At present the police are furnishing their own clothes. As uniforms, caps and belts cost more than ordinary clothes, it was thought the city should stand the additional expense if the police are required to be in uniform while on duty. At first it was planned to make that order apply to only two or three policemen. The Highway department has asked that Arlington police who work on the highway be in uniform.

Friday October 27 WONDERS OF ELECTRICITY

The telegraph was invented by Samuel F. B. Morse and Alfred Dail in their workshop at Morristown, New Jersey, 101 years ago this fall, and it gave a thrill to Washington and Baltimore when a message was telegraphed by code between the latter two cities.

The original key used in the transmission of the first telegraph message is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

It was nearly 50 years later before telephone communication existed, with a few optimistic subscribers in important centers like New York Philadelphia and Washington.

The world was better prepared for wireless telegraphy when Marconi was conducting his experiments 30 years ago, but there were very few optimists who had any faith in the predictions that have been fulfilled by radio.

Now comes television, which works successfully in limited areas.

Thousands of modern wonders are due to electricity, through which medium automobiles travel the earth, and airplanes lift themselves high into the skies. Electrical supports that keep planes from falling will be next.

Friday October 27 WAR AND THE HORSE BUSINESS

(from the Agricultural page) Contrary to the belief of most farmers, war, even foreign war, is hard on agriculture and agriculture's income. One of the few exceptions is that of the horse and mule business. Even there the industry feels the effect of post-war depression.

Wars always have called for horses and mules as well as men, as Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America, has pointed out.

Figures assembled by A. L. Smith, animal husbandman of the Texas Extension Service staff, show that for the six prior to the World War (WW1), we exported an average of 26,367 horses a year, and that these brought an average price of $143 per head.

In 1914, exports dropped to a low of 22,776 horses, which brought an average of $148.79. In 1915, exports jumped to 289,340 head, and in 1916 to 357,553. Prices averaged $221.35 in 1915, and $205.65 in 1916.

By 1919, exports were down to 27,975 horses and the price had dropped to $186.10.

A review of the horse and mule situation sent to Snyder by the Horse and Mule Association shows that Germany is believed to have some 102,000 horses and mules in actual service and that abundant reserves are available. Many horses were bought from neighboring nations during 1935 to 1938.

Exports of horses from France are forbidden for some time. It is believed that France is short of horses and will need at least 100,000 head if the war continues. French farm horses were drafted when the war (WWII) broke out.

The only heavy shipment of horses or mules from the United States recently was the shipment of 1,500 mules that moved from New Orleans to Turkey early in the summer.

THE ARLINGTON JOURNAL, Arlington, Texas. 1939

So far as is known, no orders for horses or mules are pending now, and dealers who handled the World War (WWI) shipments feels that there is little likelihood of any orders being placed before next April or May.

Friday November 3 TEXAS SNAKES

Texas has four species of poisonous snakes, but three of them have a variety of sub-species. Largest number of sub-species is boasted by the rattlesnake family. There are ten, namely pigmy or ground rattler, Willard's Prairie, Wester diamond back, green velvet, diamond back, green rock, mountain, black tail and cane brake. There are two varieties of Copperheads and three of coral snakes, but there is only one member of the moccasin family which is poisonous. It is the cotton mouth.

Snakes need not spoil the fun of a hunt or a tramp through the woods, Game Department officials point out, but warn sportsmen to be on the alert. A good pair of boots is the best protection. Never sit down in the woods or fields without looking, nor rest your hand on a rock without first scanning it.

Friday November 10 THE ELEVENTH HOUR

At eleven o'clock on the eleventh of November the world will pay homage to the ones who gave their lives, in the last World War, glad that the struggle that officially ended on the eleventh hour was finished.

There is another eleventh hour looming on our horizon. But it is a different type and builds to a different type of climax, for it indicates the opposite kind of results that the peace of the eleventh hour of 1918 brought. The youth of Germany, England, France, Poland, Finland, and other European countries are approaching the stroke of twelve with firearms rather than the peace that the eleventh hour brought them 21 years ago.

We say, "It can't happen here," but are we so sure? No, this year our clocks will strike eleven just as usual, and at this time, thankful Americans will thoughtfully bow their heads for a moment of reverence for those who have gone. In Europe "Eleven" will simply pave the way for a more blood-thirsty "Twelve."

But as long as Americans remember the ill effects of the last war and stand behind the leaders who have worked so tirelessly for peace in the European crisis, then we can feel fairly sure that eleven o'clock will remain a tribute to 100,000 American unfortunates.

Friday November 10 CARD OF THANKS

Friday November 17 Notables Attend Rites For Weldon Chapman at Cisco

Texas has lost in Weldon Chapman, high school football coach at Lubbock, one of the best beloved and highly respected coaches the state has ever known. Some ten years ago when football was gaining in high school popularity Coach Chapman was making winning teams and instilling a fine degree of sportsmanship in his players. When a game was matched with Chapman players all knew the game would be a clean one and a splendid exemplification of fair and square play.

Coach Chapman was coach during the high school days of "Iabbit" ("Rabbit"?) Brown, victim of an automobile accident. Brown, was the brother of Wink Brown, funeral director at the Luttrell Funeral Home, who has known the Chapman family for the past twelve years.

Coach Franklin of the Arlington High School team is one of the many who paid Coach Chapman a high tribute when commenting on his passing. Coach Franklin has known Chapman since 1918.

Friday December 15 IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Clara Venner Griffin who passed to rest on Dec. 4, 1939—
Mrs. Griffin had made her home in Arlington for a number of years, and had endeared herself to many of our citizens. Here was a very quite life though and many, without a more intimate knowledge of her, could scarcely know what a sweet unusual character she was.

She was of English birth and possessed many of the characteristics of her native land, which added a great deal to her interesting and pleasing personality.

She was a very ardent lover of home, and lived for it and her dear children and grandchildren. I was very closely associated with her at many times, and was much attracted to her beautiful home life. Her children were always so loyal, and her grandchildren ever a delight to her.

To lose her means a great sadness in the family circle, as her home was the meeting place for the family gatherings, not only on holiday occasions, but other times as well, but we all know that she had lived to a ripe age, and was ready for her Master's call.

“There is no death, what seems to is transition,
This life of mortal breath is but a suburb of that life Elysian,
Whose portals we call death.”

A Friend.

Friday December 29 “KILLED” BIRD TWICE

P. G. Morgan of Fort Worth will be certain in the future that only dead birds go into his game bag. Mr. Morgan recently flushed a covey of birds and killed one and crippled another. His dog retrieved both birds and Mr. Morgan placed them in the pocket of his hunting coat. After hunting a while he decided to change the birds to another pocket. The supposedly dead

Friday December 29 Year Increase 8 Per Cent

Receipts for the Arlington Post Office this year showed approximately an eight per cent increase over the year of 1938. The number of Christmas cards and parcels sent this holiday season exceeded all the past years.

The public seemed to understand better this year than ever before the necessity of mailing Christmas packages early and the large volume of business was expediently handled without an increase in force. Up to Wednesday, only two claims had been made for broken parcels. Usually breakage claims are much heavier.
